At the age of 8 years old, I started to gain the skills I would need to start my business. I cleaned my parents' house and helped my paternal and maternal grandparents with cleaning their homes. I did all of it for free. As relatives who did not have the finances to pay, it was my obligation to help them.

I got married in Mexico at the age of 19 and immigrated to the United States at 20. As a housewife, I did all of the cleaning and cooking. My friends began to notice my cleaning and organizational skills. They insisted I help clean their houses. By word of mouth, my clientele grew.
